Senate Hits Military Housing

Pentagon Told To Use Pressure

WASHINGTON, July 19 — The Senate dropped in the lap of the Defense Department today an indignant report on rat-infested, "animal-like" housing near some military camps and demanded a blackjack remedy.

The Senate preparedness subcommittee told the Pentagon to use all the pressure at its command to save servicemen with families from having to live in the "hideous hovels" now being rented to them by civilian gougers.

Subcommittee Chairman Johnson (D) Tex., plans to take the Senate floor today to reveal more about the chicken coops, coal sheds, smokehouses and old filling stations in which military personnel are forced to live.

A shack made of whiskey bottles and beer cans is "home" for one corporal and his family of three.

The report disclosed that some servicemen's families have to sleep with the lights on at night to keep their children from being bitten by rats.

SENATE PROBERS unearthed a sordid story of leaky roofs and rickety structures without water, food storage facilities or sanitation at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., Camp Rucker, Ala., and Ft. Wood, Mo.

Conditions at 10 to 12 other military installations are or will be under investigation by the subcommittee.

In recommending a blackjack remedy of "intolerable" housing, the report advised the Pentagon that before reopening or expanding any camp, it should get a firm commitment from local officials that an adequate number of "livable" housing units will be available to dependents of servicemen.

Senators suggested that the military tell local officials that if decent housing is not made available, the camps will be put elsewhere. The Senate stood ready to pass any remedial legislation the Pentagon recommends.

The report urged Americans everywhere to rise up in the "wrath of righteous indignation" against landlords who have raised rents for military personnel by 100 and even 500 per cent.

The report said:

"Nothing could be more crushing to the morale of our fighting men with families than the ensuing bitterness, desperation and hate of their fellow countrymen who are profiting from their plight. Servicemen are being shamelessly victimized by the civilians the men in uniform are dedicated to defend. . . (it is) a disgrace to America."

The report, accompanied by photographs, detailed typical "horrible" examples.

Betting Was Bad, Present Worse

CLIFTON, N. J., July 19—Mrs. Frank Marakowitz said it was bad enough when her husband pawned her wedding ring to bet on the horses. But when he gave the ring back to her as a Christmas present that was the last straw.

She listed this as a complaint in filing suit for divorce.

Freeze Of Wages, Salaries At July 7 Level Proposed

WASHINGTON, July 19 — A farm bloc member proposed today in the House that all wages and salaries and some prices be frozen at their July 7 level for four months.

The proposal was offered by Rep. Davis (D) Ga., as an amendment to the Defense Production-Controls Bill now under consideration by the House.

It immediately won the support of Rep. Wolcott (R) Mich., Republican floor manager on the bill, and other influential Republicans, but was opposed by Administration spokesmen. Administration supporters said the amendment had a major loophole which would permit the prices of agricultural commodities, including many food items, to continue to rise until they reached parity.

Government for the construction of the permanent headquarters of the United Nations in New York City. Below, a photograph of the check.

Cattle Feeders React To Government Controls

WASHINGTON, July 19—Cattle feeders have reacted sharply to government beef controls and the result may be less good quality beef in the coming months.

This was indicated in an Agriculture Department report that the number of cattle on feed July 1 was nine per cent less than a year ago.

Officials refuse to estimate what portion of the nation's beef supply comes from this grain-fed cattle. But they do know it makes up most of the choice and

Heavy Damage Reported In Oil Well Fire

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 19—A heavily-producing oil well two miles east of Upper Sandusky burst into flames today and destroyed $15,000 worth of equipment and thousands of barrels of crude oil.

The Upper Sandusky and nearby Nevada community fire departments called to extinguish the blaze but were hampered by the lack of water and dense, billowing smoke. The oil continued to burn through late morning.

Firemen said chemicals being used to extinguish the blaze had little effect and they may have to dynamite the well to check the fire.

The well, located on the Joseph Brown farm was brought in yesterday without blasting and began producing 30 barrels of oil in an hour.

The oil poured out of the well so freely that it overflowed on the ground and the pumping rig and was ignited by the engine of pumper at about 9 a. m.

Red A-Blast Report Denied

WASHINGTON, July 19—President Truman said today that there is no evidence that Russia has achieved another atomic explosion since the Soviet blast reported in 1949.

The President's statement was made at his news conference in response to a question based on recent reports of a volcanic type explosion in Sinkiang Province in China.

Wilson added: "tomorrow, next week, next month, next year, Communism can start another Korea, possibly in Iran."

The only way to achieve world peace, he insisted, "is to make America so mighty that no aggressor would dare to attack us."

Wilson told the International Association of Retail Clerks that Americans must not be

REDS FAIL TO SCORE HIT

Wonsan Reels Under Heavy Allied Naval Bombardment

KOREA, July 19 — The Communist Korean port of Wonsan reeled today under one of the heaviest naval bombardments of the war.

The 45,000-ton American battleship New Jersey led a squadron of Allied warships in a "retaliatory" bombardment of the east coast port Wednesday. More than 1,000 rounds of 16, eight and five inch shells were hurled into Red installations.

Carrier-based aircraft blasted the port area at the same time and at least ten enemy gun emplacements were destroyed.

The Navy announced that the New Jersey was joined in the bombardment by the American heavy cruiser Helena, four U. S. destroyers and the British frigate Morecambe Bay.

The bombardment came in the wake of a furious gun duel Tuesday with Red shore batteries. The land-emplaced Red guns hurled at least 500 rounds of ammunition at the UN warships in the blockaded Wonsan harbor but failed to score a hit.

A 30-page analysis of the Kaiser-Frazer loans was released by the Fulbright subcommittee, which exposed influence and favoritism in the Reconstruction Finance Corp., the government's lending agency and source of the company's loans.

But the senators made it clear at the start that they had found no evidence that outside influence was used in the loans which eventually reached $62 million.

The subcommittee acknowledged that in considering the K-F request for its original $34.4 million loan in 1949 the RFC was faced by possible liquidation of the automobile enterprise and "important repercussions" in many fields. But it said:

"Notwithstanding these things, the subcommittee believes that the RFC should not have made the original loans.

"It does not believe that the interest of the general public was such as to justify the use of public funds to continue operation of Kaiser-Frazer as an automobile company."

Westerville City Manager To Speak Here

Ralph Snyder, city manager of Westerville, is to make a return appearance to Circleville.

Snyder, who planted the seed leading to current discussions of a city manager form of government for this community, has been secured for an open forum here Friday night.

He will replace on the program Winston Hill, city manager of Washington C. H., who is ill in his home. The meeting, scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m., will be held in Court-Main restaurant.

The Westerville leader appeared before a Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting here several weeks ago and told of the success his city is having with the city manager form of government.

Since then, local businessmen have shown interest in the setup, booked the Friday evening open forum and invited representatives of the various local civic organizations to attend.

The spokesman said the situation that has arisen over the U.S.-Spanish talks in Madrid is "delicate."

He referred to previous French statements citing "moral and political reasons" for French opposition to a military pact between the United States and Spain.

Anderson's council colleague, Joe Brink, has said he may circulate a petition which will put the issue on the November ballot.

ST. LOUIS, July 19 — Floodwaters in Central Missouri dipped slightly today but the swollen Mississippi gathered momentum for a mighty onslaught against St. Louis and other river towns.

U.S.-Spanish Military Pact Is Opposed

LONDON, July 19 — Britain and France reaffirmed their opposition today to a Spanish-American military pact on the grounds that it would harm Western morale and provide ammunition for Communist propaganda guns.

A foreign office spokesman in Paris renewed French claims that no bases in Spanish Morocco can be granted without final consent of the French government.

The spokesman said the situation that has arisen over the U.S.-Spanish talks in Madrid is "delicate."

He referred to previous French statements citing "moral and political reasons" for French opposition to a military pact between the United States and Spain.

Anderson's council colleague, Joe Brink, has said he may circulate a petition which will put the issue on the November ballot.

The spokesman also recalled a verbal agreement between French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and the late British Foreign Secretary, Ernest Bevin, made in December, 1949, banning shipment of military equipment to Spain by the two Western partners.

A British foreign office spokesman said the Labor government would "view with disfavor" any alliance between Spain and any member of the Atlantic Pact, because it would have "a very bad propaganda effect."

The President's statement was made at his news conference in response to a question based on recent reports of a volcanic type explosion in Sinkiang Province in China.

Wilson added: "tomorrow, next week, next month, next year, Communism can start another Korea, possibly in Iran."

(In Washington, Secretary of State Acheson officially disclosed that the U. S. is seeking an agreement with Spain that would provide Spain with an active part in the defense of Western Europe.)

A highly reliable source said that the breakup, which is believed aimed at liberalizing certain policies of the Franco regime objected to by Democratic countries, was originally to be announced today but was delayed until Friday. The cabinet changes are expected to be accompanied by an easing of press censorship.

The breakup was linked with a report from an authoritative source that Generalissimo Francisco Franco and Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, U. S. chief of naval operations, have come to a full agreement in principle on the use of eight strategic bases after three

Conference Reaches Crisis

Cease-Fire Pact Is Next Stage

KAESONG, July 19 — Allied and Red delegates held firm today to their opposing stands on a basic issue in the Korean truce negotiations and a spokesman said tonight that Friday's session may decide whether the conference will collapse or continue.

Lt. Col. W. J. Preston, who sat in at Thursday's tense session in Kaesong, told newsmen at the United Nations truce camp:

"We will come to an agreement (Friday) or there will be an air of finality about the disagreement."

Nevertheless, he said, he would not call the critical condition of the conference a hopeless deadlock. He indicated however that the UN delegation will never budge in its refusal to put a Red-proposed item—reportedly calling for evacuation of non-Korean troops from Korea—on the agenda.

THE COLONEL plainly inferred that if anyone yields ground in the controversy it will have to be the Communists.

Preston said his remarks had the approval of the UN command, presumably including Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Allied commander who flew back to the truce camp in Korea from Tokyo as the Kaesong conference reached a crisis.

The disputed issue on which the fate of the Armistice negotiations appears to hinge was not officially identified. But it was understood to stem from a Communist demand that the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea be discussed at the conference.

For the first time since the momentous Kaesong talks began July 10th, the UN command declared that "no progress" was made during the day's intensive discussions.

The official bulletin said Vice Adm. Charles Turner Joy, chief Allied delegate, "reiterated the United Nations stand that only matters of a military nature would be discussed" in the negotiations for cease-fire.

It said a statement by the principal Red delegate, North Korean Gen. Nam II, during the seventh day of the agenda talks "made it clear that their position was unchanged on the question under debate."

AFTER ARGUING the matter for an hour and 55 minutes, the two delegations agreed to adjourn until 10 a. m. Friday (7 p. m. Thursday EST).

Gen. Nuckolls said that "if and when" the agenda is completed (Continued on Page Two)

PRESS CURBS EASED

Drastic Cabinet Shakeup Is Expected In Spain

MADRID, July 19—Spain was expected today to announce shortly a drastic cabinet shakeup. It is intended to pave the way for a military agreement which would allow American ships and planes to use Spanish naval and air bases in event of war.

A highly reliable source said that the breakup, which is believed aimed at liberalizing certain policies of the Franco regime objected to by Democratic countries, was originally to be announced today but was delayed until Friday. The cabinet changes are expected to be accompanied by an easing of press censorship.

Functioning of the Ohio Workmen's Compensation Act was detailed this week during a meeting of Circleville Kiwanis Club.

Speaker for the program was John C. Duffy, Columbus attorney and former reviewer for the state industrial commission.

Duffy told Kiwanians that the workmen's benefit act was originated in Ohio in 1911, set up so that employers could take it or leave it alone. In 1912, he added, the act was made compulsory by legislation.

At present 90 percent of Ohio employees are insured by the plan. The remaining 10 percent are self insured.

In case of an injury on the job, workers have two years in which to file for benefits. Industrial disease cases, however, must be filed within four months.

Duffy concluded by citing that 94 percent of all claims filed with the industrial commission under the act are paid without contest.

Dope Peddler War Started

NEW YORK, July 19—New York City today listed the dope peddler as public enemy number one and planned a major expansion of the anti-narcotics squad "until the tide is turned against the vermin."

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan said he will add 20 men a month to the squad of 45 "even if the number of additional men exceeds 100."

The additions will be rookies straight out of the police academy and unknown to the underworld.

Firemen were forced to wear masks while tearing their way through the ceiling of the one-story brick building before putting out the fire.

U.S. Casualties In Korea War Total 79,139

WASHINGTON, July 19—The Defense Department's weekly summary of American casualties in Korea shows an increase of 413 to bring the total since the start of the war to 79,139.

Sixty-four Americans were killed in action, 121 wounded, 1,342 died; and 12,237 missing, of whom 111 are known to have died. The total of Americans dead is 13,230.

A woman who does housework in a farm household is considered the same as a hired hand as far as reporting for Social Security purposes is concerned. In other words, she must meet the same requirements as a hired man to be considered regularly employed.

The increase was the smallest since the Defense Department began issuing weekly summaries last Fall. Casualties have averaged about 1,500 per week.

The new total includes 11,777 killed in action; 55,125 wounded, of whom 1,342 died; and 12,237 missing, of whom 111 are known to have died. The total of Americans dead is 13,230.

By services, the Army has suffered 64,701 casualties, the Marine Corps 12,828, the Navy 918 and the Air Force 692.

The summary, which lags about three weeks behind actual casualties in Korea, is expected to show an even greater decrease in the weekly rate for the periods covering the cease fire negotiations now under way.

MALADY HARD TO STAMP OUT

Johne's Disease Reported In Cattle In 41 States

COLUMBUS, July 19—A baffling disease of cattle which often creeps into a herd without noticeable symptoms is now causing losses to farmers in 41 states.

The American Foundation for Animal Health said the condition, known as Johne's disease, is regarded as one of the most difficult of all infections to eradicate from cattle herds. Slow to develop, it is very hard to detect in its early stages. Officials said:

"The disease is caused by a tiny germ which attacks the intestinal tract. Affected animals develop scours and gradually lose weight for several months. The coat may become rough. Milk production slows up and eventually may stop. The infection animal may continue to lose weight until it becomes so thin and weak it dies."

Symptoms are most likely to show up in animals from two to six years old. Such animals may have harbored the germ since birth and this long incubation period makes the disease difficult to stamp out once it shows up in a herd.

"CONTROL DEPENDS on an accurate diagnosis, as there is danger of confusing the disease with tuberculosis," say foundation authorities, adding:

"Clinical tests enable the veterinarian to spot the reactors which should then be removed from the herd and sold for slaughter. The premises should also be disinfected and young calves kept away from contaminated quarters if this dangerous infection is to be prevented from spreading."

Hot weather reduces the lifting capacity of an airplane. A 10-degree temperature rise can amount to a load reduction of 3,000 pounds.

UN Is Told Red Strength Holds Despite Losses

FLUSHING MEADOW, July 19—Gen. Matthew Ridgway has reported to the United Nations that enemy strength in Korea "deteriorated considerably" on the eve of Jacob Malik's proposal for a cease-fire.

The supreme commander pointed out, however, that despite this deterioration there was no letup in Communist aggression in Korea.

In his 23rd report to UN, covering June 1 to 15, the supreme UN commander warned that the Chinese Communist forces showed no inclination of relaxing their grip on North Korea. Ridgway has since indicated he is taking no chances during the unbroken Kaesong cease-fire talks of allowing the enemy to build up for a new surprise assault in case of breakdown in truce negotiations.

He underlined the unbroken military strength of the Communist troops in Korea by pointing out in his report that of the 80 infantry divisions which attacked in the abortive Spring offensive, some 16 were wiped out, but that another 70 are currently in the field for combat duty.

QUESTIONNAIRE READIED*Ohio's One-Man Narcotics Bureau Plans Program

COLUMBUS, July 19—Ohio's one-man division of health and narcotics is working today on a questionnaire to be sent to school and parent-teacher authorities throughout the state in an effort to determine the extent of the dope problem in Ohio.

This information came from Howard E. Hamlin, supervisor and entire personnel of the 13-year-old division.

With the narcotics problem spotlighted by recent national exposés, Hamlin is the man designated to handle the educational aspects of the situation in Ohio at a governor's conference last week.

The questionnaire is a direct outgrowth of the conference among educational, law enforcement authorities and Governor Lausche.

However, Hamlin, a former professor of physiology at Ohio State University, had refused to divulge any information about his work, until he received specific permission from his superior, State Education Director Clyde Hissong.

So, with Hissong's permission Hamlin reveals that his work in recent years has been limited mainly to the distribution of four mimeographed bulletins dealing primarily with alcohol and cigarettes.

ONE OF THE bulletins details the effects of using marijuana. There is no information concerning the more deadly drugs and the bulletins are sent only to those who ask for them.

Hamlin said he has received no reports of the spread of narcotics in Ohio, but that he will place his bulletins in every state-supported school this Fall. Any other "intensification" of his activities will depend on the information elicited by the questionnaire now in preparation.

The narcotics education supervisor said alcohol and nicotine still are society's big problems, but do not get the attention devoted to such drugs as heroin and cocaine because they are not as "sensational."

He said the use of marijuana has fallen off from an all-time high around 1935 and 1936 to the point where "only two or three sales have been reported in the last four or five years."

In fact, Hamlin said his narcotics duties have declined so that since 1949 he has devoted half his time to censoring movies shown in Ohio. Miss Susannah Warfield, supervisor of the censorship division, recently listed Hamlin as "practically a full-time member" of the censorship board.

HAMLIN SAID he approaches the dope problem in the "slow, quiet, educational" way. He definitely does not want any "sensationalism" attached to his work. He said:

"We don't tell them (high school pupils) what to do. We give them the scientific findings and then say, 'it's up to you.'

Hamlin's bulletin on marijuana, last revised in 1946, states:

"It is gratifying to be able to report that the consumption of marijuana in the United States has recently been efficiently checked."

His alcohol bulletin was revised in 1948 and the one on smoking in 1950. It contains such information as the following:

"AMERICAN, British and French cigarettes contain two percent to three and five-tenths percent nicotine. Tobaccos from Macedonia are noted for their extremely small amount of nicotine, varying from five-tenths to thirty-five hundredths percent."

As a means of handling the narcotics problem, one bulletin urges substituting a "way of life that is so creative and thrilling that we would choose to heed established facts of hygiene and social conduct."

As a practical means of bringing this about, Hamlin suggests the formation of community councils, elimination of slums, teaching in the social and science fields, more public recreation facilities and more libraries, drama, music and art projects.

Hamlin also has taught physiology and anatomy at Simmons College in Boston, the Sargent School for Physical Education, Cambridge, Mass., and the Harvard Summer school.

He feels his experience with narcotics education has been quite valuable in handling the drug aspects of motion picture censorship, particularly with reference to a film about marijuana called "Devil's Weed," which was banned by the Ohio supreme court.

Volunteer Fire Ruling Is Made

COLUMBUS, July 19—Attorney General C. William O'Neill has ruled that villages may contract with volunteer fire departments organized not for profit to furnish fire protection.

The opinion, which reverses a previous opinion by O'Neill's predecessor in office, affects more than 100 volunteer fire departments in the state. It went to the state fire marshal's office.

More cigarettes are smoked during August in America than in any other month of the year.

During the last two years, large quantities of butter were stored as a result of the department's price-support programs. This year, however, little has been purchased.

The secret to the entire operation, Long explains, is that water conducts electricity. When rains come, it completes an electrical circuit between a series of disks, starting the raising mechanism.

Long plans to put the unit, which he says will sell for around $60, on the market Aug. 1.

Butter Storage Drops Sharply

WASHINGTON, July 19—The Agriculture Department said today there were only 40 pounds of butter in storage on June 30, for every hundred pounds a year ago.

Officials revealed that creamy butter in storage totaled 74 million pounds, about 16 percent below average.

During the last two years, large quantities of butter were stored as a result of the department's price-support programs. This year, however, little has been purchased.

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly you lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your home. Make this recipe yourself. It's no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour

Newest Gadget Closes Car When Rain Starts

ST. LOUIS, July 19—A St. Louis judge had his civic pride ruffled when a divorce-seeking husband testified that he could not persuade his spouse, now residing in Los Angeles, to live in St. Louis because of the city's climate.

Circuit Judge James E. McLaughlin promptly declared: "Because of her criticism of the climate here, I hasten to give you a divorce."

Columbus Realtor Held In Denver

DENVER, July 19—Bob Byers of Columbus, is being held in Denver for federal authorities who want him in the Ohio capital for examination in the bankruptcy of four corporations, two individuals, a partnership and a trust.

The federal warrant was issued in May. Officials in Columbus reported that the half-million-dollar bankruptcies included houses that were never built. $70,000 in down payments made Byers was a Columbus realtor.

Woman Hurts Judge's Pride

MIAMI, July 18—How can you put up the top on a convertible when you're away from the car and it starts raining?

A 35-year-old amateur inventor of Miami says he has the answer.

Jimmy Long calls it the automatic rain cell—approximately the size of a shoe polish can—which can be easily mounted on any flat surface of the car. When attached to an electric or hydraulically controlled convertible top, the first drop of water on the screen-covered unit will raise the top and all car windows.

MARIETTA LADY LOSES 40 LBS. USING RENNEL

Mary L. Schramm, 513 6th St., Marietta, Ohio, writes: "Since taking Rennel Concentrate I am 40 lbs. and therefore can assure you that I highly recommend Rennel. I am an elderly lady and find that losing this excess weight has also helped my appearance."

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly you lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your home. Make this recipe yourself. It's no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender more youthful curves, if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly fat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Insist on genuine Rennel.

NEW MODELS SOON

THE automotive industry is looking forward hopefully to the unveiling of 1952 models which, rumor has it, will be staged earlier this year than in any year since World War II. Information available in Detroit is to the effect that more lines will appear with valve-in-head V-8 engines, a trend started by Cadillac and Oldsmobile in 1949, since joined by Chrysler and Studebaker.

Waiting lists for new cars, a fixture for several years, have vanished and the industry looks forward to introduction of the new models to give the industry a shot in the arm. News from Washington that no further cutbacks in auto production are contemplated has obviated the possibility of an automobile shortage in the near future, and dealers are convinced improved models are what the times call for.

Bits of information that have leaked out of the Detroit factories is to the effect that some of the automatic transmissions now on the market will be replaced by mechanisms of improved design, and that radical changes in body designs will be offered by several manufacturers.

New 1952 models will be introduced regardless of any turn in the international situation. Designs were completed long ago and no waste of strategic materials is involved in the changeover.

Whether credit restrictions will be relaxed is doubtful and most dealers have stopped worrying about this phase of their business. They are not so sure now that it would be noticeably easier to sell automobiles on 18 months credit terms than it is on a 15 months basis.

CLOSING OUT SALE

UNCLE SAM is going out of the egg business. At any rate he is closing out his principal stock, held for many months in a giant cave near Atchison, Kan. At one time 12 acres of the cave's area were covered with barrels of dried eggs.

The Department of Agriculture has sold nearly 17 million pounds to the United Kingdom, and shipments are going forward at the rate of 10 carloads a day. Each car holds 30,000 pounds.

Dried eggs have been purchased at various times during recent years by the Production and Marketing Administration as a means of upholding a price-support program for producers. This had the effect of keeping egg prices high for the consumer, and the plan was subjected to much criticism.

With removal of the eggs the big cave near Atchison will be practically empty, and it is rumored that eventually it will be closed for government purposes. At one time 55 persons were employed there, but this number now has been reduced to 28.

No statement has been made concerning loss on the deal. This will be forthcoming in time, and it will be interesting to learn how much Uncle Sam's foray into the egg market cost the taxpayers.

These Days

In the Orient, strength is always understood; it is respected if accompanied by the rare quality of natural dignity. The so-called practical man, who knows that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line, often wonders why when he reached his goal, there is no one there to deal with. The practical man, as he calls himself, usually omits what he likes to regard as emotional factors. The Oriental does not necessarily stand in the way of the oncoming speeder; he steps aside to wait for a calmer approach. He knows that neither speed nor reason is the sole concomitant of any situation.

This lesson has apparently now been learned by the government of the United States. It has been a costly lesson, costly in lives and in wealth. But if it has truly been absorbed by those who make policy decisions in Washington, then we are on the way to doing something not only about the Korean situation but about all Far Eastern

From a Far Eastern standpoint, this is the way the situation stands:

1. The Russians intervened to achieve peace;

2. The Americans hastily jumped at the suggestion because they were in a hurry to get out of a stalemated war;

3. The Chinese and Korean Communists took their time, made their own terms, carried them out, and the Americans accepted the Sino-Korean formula;

4. The Americans walked into Kaesong and discovered that they were receiving unequal treatment, that an effort was being made to establish that they (the Americans) were suing for peace;

5. The American newspapermen and photographers broke through military censorship and got the story to the American people who were outraged by the conduct of their military officials;

6. The United States, showing dignified strength, then retired from the Kaesong conference and rejected the idea of unequal treatment;

7. The Sino-Koreans retreated from their position and accepted the American terms "in principle." Ultimately, they accepted them in fact.

There is the pattern of a lesson which every Oriental knows since childhood. Dignified strength is like a stone wall. If you bang your head against it, you can break your head, but you are not likely to knock down the wall.

In the Western world, we call much of this "standing by your principles," or "standing by your guns." But what we call "practical and reasonable men" feel generally that it is best—they might put it—"cheapest in the end"—to compromise, to find what the lawyers call "a meeting of the minds."

In the Orient, all this is bad practise, and the point must be made that Stalin is an Oriental, the same as Mao Tze-tung. To such persons, over-anxiety and compromise represent undignified weakness. Over-anxiety is undignified; an eager compromise is weakness. Before a compromise is reached, each side must stand stock-still and swear on all that is holy, including the grave of his father, that he will not give an inch. This must be repeated, with a deep sense of outrage, two or three times. Then somehow, out of a welter of many words and loud speech, a little break appears.

Try, Stop Me

The Colonel warned his old Negro cook, "Don't you go serving me any wild fowl for my Christmas dinner, Sam. I want a succulent, domestic, corn-fed bird." Christmas dinner duly was served, and the Colonel bit into his portion of turkey. "Blast you, Sam," he cried. "Didn't I tell you I demanded a domestic bird?"

"Yassuh," maintained Sam, "and dat am it." "Domestic, hey?" thundered the colonel. Then what about all this buckshot I'm finding in it?"

Sam wiped the back of his neck with an old bandana and confessed, "Colonel, dat dere buckshot, ah expect, was meant fo' me."

SYNOPSIS

A cryptic letter commanding him to report to attorney Owen Bradley, brings to attorney Owen Bradley, riding into the town of Avril, to find the town appears only pale and awaiting Tonto's arrival including the beautiful hostess at the Golden Saloon who whispers to him that he better get out of town as fast as he can. There goes lovely girl-like young woman. Tonto learns that her name is Ruby Sevier. But urgency of the business in hand, sends him on his way to lawyer Bradley's office.

CHAPTER FOUR

"EVER heard of Grant Staples?" Bradley said. Tonto frowned. The name roused dim memories, a faint stirring of the distant past. He probed back in his mind and his face lighted. "My Paw worked for him—long before I was born. Up toward Taos, if I remember."

"You do," Bradley nodded. "George Riley and Grant Staples were good friends and mighty close. It was Grant who loaned his father the money to start his ranch in Arizona. Grant remembered George."

"Paw used to tell me stories about the Staples spread. A couple of times they had trouble with tough drifters over the line from the Panhandle."

"You got it!" Bradley beamed and then he sobered. "One of those times, your father saved Grant's life and took a slug that might have killed his friend. Grant never forgot it. He moved down this way about two years after your father left him and started the Slash S. Right now it's the richest spread in all these parts. Grant married a local girl from a family that had a wild streak in it. Folks said it would lead to trouble, but they got along and were happy. She died when Grant's son, Rick, was born."

Tonto listened, wondering in what way he was connected to this saga of a man whom he had never seen. It added detail to what he knew of his father's life and Tonto thought he had a clue to the mysterious letter. Through Owen Bradley, Grant Staples wanted his old friend's son to do some sort of a confidential job. Tonto's eyes hardened and he waited for the offer he knew was sure to come. Friend of his father's or not, Grant Staples would discover that Tonto Riley's code precluded gun fighting. Bradley continued talking.

"Rick, Grant's son, grew up in these parts. Like I said, the Flemings—his mother's people—had a streak of wildness in them and Rick inherited his share. It became apparent when he grew older and, besides, Grant let the youngster do just about what he pleased. Grant was worried the way Rick run around, but he figured the boy would get his senses and settle down once he had his ring."

Tonto's eyes narrowed. "It's a good outfit?" he said with a slight edge in his voice.

"The best," Bradley lowered the paper. "You should have no trouble showing a profit. But the second 'string' will prove difficult. You must find out who killed Rick Staples and bring that person to justice. Now that can be one big job."

Tonto arose and walked to the window. He looked down on Avril's dusty street. Tonto wondered if he was fully awake. The dusty sun was high.

Bradley turned back to the window and Bradley gave him several minutes to sort his thoughts. Tonto's mind raced. This whole thing was fantastic. It just wasn't been.

"What's your opinion?" Tonto asked impatiently.

"Whom have you told about this will?" Tonto said.

"I have personally told no one. But Grant Staples talked too much and he told everyone Bart Overby wouldn't get a cent of his money or a blade of grass from the Slash S. He said he was sending for a man who'd prove who killed Rick. Avril didn't know your name, but I was looking for you."

by—and Rick?"

Bradley looked startled but the expression swiftly vanished and he picked his words carefully.

"Rick was murdered. There have been rumors all over this part of the country, and some pretty wild guesses. Naturally, Overby's name came up in some of them. Rick has been dead two years and the law has never brought anyone to trial."

"What's your opinion?" Tonto asked impatiently.

"Those are the terms of the will. It's up to you to accept them. If you do not want the bequest, you can sign this waiver and I shall ask the courts to settle the estate."

"To Bart Overby?"

"Very probably. He's all that's left."

"Whom have you told about this will?" Tonto said.

"I have personally told no one. But Grant Staples talked too much and he told everyone Bart Overby wouldn't get a cent of his money or a blade of grass from the Slash S. He said he was sending for a man who'd prove who killed Rick. Avril didn't know your name, but I was looking for you."

lievable that a wandering waddy would become heir to a rich spread. Bradley gently cleared his throat.

The Italian republic, increasing in international stature with progress of Western European defense and the likelihood of peace treaty revision, has a government crisis on its hands today which may prove costly to the losing cause of Communism.

Premier Alcide deGasperi, one-time Vatican librarian and veteran head of six Italian governments following dissolution of the monarchy, resigned with all members of his cabinet.

The reasons for the crisis were largely domestic and to some extent difficult of understanding in the outside world.

Taxation, finances, the budget, land reforms, individual differences among cabinet ministers and a host of other factors contributed.

International issues apparently were not greatly involved, despite the world attention raised by DeGasperi's recent forthright demand that the Western allies make good on their 1948 promise to return the Adriatic city of Trieste and its surrounding free territory to the Italian flag.

But two things seem certain:

FIRST, COMMUNIST attempts to capitalize on the situation by seeking a new general election will fail. Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti immediately demanded one, but there is no sign of a disposition on the part of President Luigi Einaudi to accede.

Second, DeGasperi will be called upon to form a new government. If he accepts, it probably will be on the basis of

This is to put Italy's house in

Free Dental Clinic For Needy Pupils Is Planned Here

Educators OK Kiwanis Program

All City Dentists Approve Project

A free dental clinic for needy youngsters in the Circleville school system is expected to go into operation here this Fall.

Circleville board of education has granted space for the project after hearing three men representing Circleville Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the project.

Making the request before the board were Harold Anderson and Dentists Richard Samuel and William Rickey, all members of Kiwanis.

Anderson said all Circleville dentists have agreed to participate in a Kiwanis-sponsored clinic here this Fall on an equal basis, sharing responsibility equally.

The dentists added that certain hours could be arranged for the proposed clinic, with each dentist meeting an equal obligation.

"There is no basis whatever for the ridiculous statement that a deal was made by Ambassador Jessup and Andrei Gromyko during their prolonged Paris talks seeking to arrange a Big Four foreign ministers meeting," Department Spokesman Michael McDermott said:

"The subject of Korea was brought up around the table in Paris at meetings of the Western Powers with Gromyko as an indication of the aggressive policies of the Soviet Union which had necessitated defensive action by the West."

"The conference in Paris was confined to European questions as far as the substance was concerned. There were no private meetings on Korea. There was no cease-fire agreement with Gromyko. It's a lot of nonsense."

on written permission by their parents.

Location of the proposed clinic was not determined, although rooms in both Franklin and High Street elementary buildings were discussed.

Dr. Samuel helped clear that hurdle, however, by stating:

"A lack of parent responsibility for the child's health is not the child's fault. Kiwanis wants to see that those youngsters receive the benefit of dental treatment."

The men told the panel that Kiwanis is expecting to set up the equipment for the clinic, needing only the space in the city system for the program.

City educators, after the men had left, "reluctantly" voted to donate the space for the clinic upon the condition that the board assumes no other responsibility than excusing youngsters from classes for treatment.

Diplomats Deny Korea Peace Talk Started In Paris

WASHINGTON, July 19 — A State Department spokesman has denounced as "a lot of nonsense" published reports that a cease-fire "deal" on Korea was prepared in Paris weeks ago.

These reports said that the cease-fire talks in Korea were the result of arrangements made by U. S. Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko during their prolonged Paris talks seeking to arrange a Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

Department Spokesman Michael McDermott said:

"There is no basis whatever for the ridiculous statement that a deal was made by Ambassador Jessup and Andrei Gromyko during their prolonged Paris talks seeking to arrange a Big Four foreign ministers meeting."

The subject of Korea was brought up around the table in Paris at meetings of the Western Powers with Gromyko as an indication of the aggressive policies of the Soviet Union which had necessitated defensive action by the West."

"The conference in Paris was confined to European questions as far as the substance was concerned. There were no private meetings on Korea. There was no cease-fire agreement with Gromyko. It's a lot of nonsense."

on written permission by their parents.

Location of the proposed clinic was not determined, although rooms in both Franklin and High Street elementary buildings were discussed.

Dr. Samuel helped clear that hurdle, however, by stating:

"A lack of parent responsibility for the child's health is not the child's fault. Kiwanis wants to see that those youngsters receive the benefit of dental treatment."

The men told the panel that Kiwanis is expecting to set up the equipment for the clinic, needing only the space in the city system for the program.

After 12 Years, German Woman Gets U.S. Entry

HOBOKEN, July 19 — Gertrude Hell, 26, who once was forced to join a Nazi youth organization in Czechoslovakia, entered the United States Wednesday by grace of an act of Congress. Her arrival ended 12 years of repeated disappointments in her efforts to reach America.

When the conflict ended, Miss

America liner Nieuw Amsterdam.

Miss Hell's fight for admittance began in 1938 when her mother, now Mrs. Bertha Kreuger of Minneapolis, came to the U. S. to care for a relative. She left the then 14-year-old Gertrude with an aunt in Germany.

The war broke out and the immigration lists grew longer and more complicated.

When the conflict ended, Miss

Hell renewed her efforts to reach America, but in 1950 the McCarran act made her ineligible.

Under its provisions, any former member of a Nazi youth group was excluded.

Representative Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.) became interested in the case and championed a bill excluding from the McCarran act jurisdiction any minors forced into Nazi groups.

Miss Hell said she will join her cents per pound.

Shortly thereafter, one large chain of grocery stores said it would pass on this reduction to consumers beginning tomorrow. The new retail price for Savarin coffee in stores will be 93 cents a pound.

Coffee trade circles said the Savarin move constituted the first time that an independent roaster of vacuum-packed coffee fees has reduced prices since last January.
